Frank Pasquito and his cousin Dan learned the craft of building beautiful homes from their fathers and their uncle. Frank feels that the success of his company is based on the service that he provides to his clients. “You need to be available to your clients 100% of the time. It means seven days a week. You should always be kind and receptive to your clients and their ideas.” He smiles as he says, “Even if they get a brainstorm about their house at 2:00 in the morning.”

Frank feels that the three keys to a successful custom building company are: Knowledge, Experience and Performance. “Pasquito Builders was founded in 1947. For 63 years, our craftsmen learned their trade from the founders of the company and the craftsmen who came before them. Every person we choose to join us is taught that there is a right way and a wrong way to build, and for our craftsmen, the right way is the only way. We use every bit of skill that we possess to give our clients the home they have dreamed of.”

Pasquito Builders specializes in one-of-a-kind custom homes and additions, renovations, historical restoration, exquisite kitchens and baths, specialty doors and hardware, and custom architectural mouldings. “We always challenge ourselves with each project we create,” he relates. “We try to come up with different ideas that no one else will think of. We enjoy creating one-of-a-kind projects for one-of-a-kind clients.”

The photos accompanying this article and the Pasquito Builders advertisement are examples of the company’s commitment to excellence. From the chandelier and skylight above the kitchen in a Hopewell Borough home, to the stained glass backsplash, the company, working with homeowner Gail Samse, created a unique kitchen that is a shining example of Pasquito Builders’ knowledge, experience and performance.

The second photograph depicts the exquisite craftsmanship that the company brought to a manor house it built outside Princeton, highlighting the arched chimneys and balconies of the home. As Frank Pasquito relates, “We put our name on these projects, and that means that we must build them to the very best of our abilities as true professionals.”
